Bares Jap Documents Urging Seizure of Soviet Territory

SOVIET STRENGTHENS MILITARY FORCES ON FAR EAST FRONTIERS

Hopes for Shanghai Truce Blasted as Powers Resume Seige 24 Hours After Command had Been Ordered for Armistice

Geneva, Mar. 4.—(U.P.)—Japan is landing 35,000 more troops at Shanghai and has an army pushing on to Nanking, W. W. Yen, Chinese delegate, charged at a session of the general committee of the League of Nations assembly today.

After Naotake Sato, Japanese delegate, had told the meeting that Japan would never resume the conflict once it has been effectively stopped Yen jumped to his feet and said:

"I ask the assembly to remove its eyes from a mirage. I have just received three telegrams from Shanghai that the Japanese army has not ceased hostilities but is advancing further. Eight transports arrived near Linho with troops, tanks and artillery and are pushing on to Nanking, being at present 40 miles west of Shanghai.

Moscow, March 4.—(U.P.)—The Soviet government admitted for the first time today that it had strengthened military forces on its far eastern frontiers.

Simultaneously, it was charged that "responsible representatives of military and non-military circles in Japan" were planning to seize far eastern Soviet possessions.

Reveals Plans

Through a leading editorial in the newspaper Izvestia it was revealed that Moscow possesses documents, allegedly emanating from Japanese leaders, urging early attacks against the Soviets. These urged attacks allegedly were aimed at the destruction of the Soviet Union with the aid of Poland, Rumania, and other western nations. Izvestia admitted "that the documents perhaps can be considered personal opinions of the authors," but said the authors were too influential to be disregarded and deserved serious political weight.

Publishes Excerpts

Without disclosing the authorship, Izvestia published alleged excerpts from the documents. One excerpt said:

"We consider it necessary that Japan adopt a firm policy with the Soviet Union, being prepared to begin war at any moment. The cardinal purpose of this war is not the protection of Japan against communism but the seizure of the Soviet far east and eastern Siberia."

Another excerpt said: "The Soviet-Japanese war must be undertaken as soon as possible. We must realize that as time passes the situation becomes more favorable for the Soviets."

Shanghai Truce Fails

Shanghai, March 4.—(U.P.)—Warfare was resumed in the Shanghai area today within 24 hours after the Chinese and Japanese high commands had ordered an armistice, to be broken only to resist attack.

False reports that General Yoshinori Shirakawa, commander of Japanese land forces, had been killed in action at Liuhou caused great crowds of Chinese to form a celebration parade. Long strings of firecrackers were touched off in the international settlement, giving rise to alarmist rumors that the Chinese had started a counter-attack.

The excitement became so general that Japanese forces were strengthened in land sections where danger threatened. Machine guns were placed along Soochow creek.

Chinese Refuse Terms

The Chinese refused to accept the Japanese proposals for a neutral zone around Shanghai although Chiang Kwang-Nai, commander-in-chief of the 19th route army, announced officially that he had ordered cessation of hostilities except in areas where Japanese attacked.

A bloody encounter began at Nanzang, 20 miles from Shanghai on the Shanghai-Nanking railroad, at 10 a. m. The Japanese occupied the entire Chapel area, reduced to ruins after a month's bombardment from artillery and airplanes, and refused to allow any Chinese to enter the district for three days.

Widespread rioting by Chinese occurred in the international settlement and French concession during the night. It lasted until 11 p. m. in the French concession where several Ananite police were badly beaten in an effort to wrest a Chinese flag from a mob leader.

At 1 a. m. everything was quiet although there had been fighting during the night.

KENTUCKIANS STORM CAPITAL IN PROTEST AGAINST SALES TAX

Frankfort, Ky., March 4.—(U.P.)—The proposed one per cent general sales tax, subject of an angry demonstration against Governor Ruby Laffoon, was to be voted upon in the state senate today or Saturday.

The tax proposal, which has met greater disapproval than any piece of Kentucky legislation in a decade, already has been passed by the lower house and was expected to be approved by the senate.

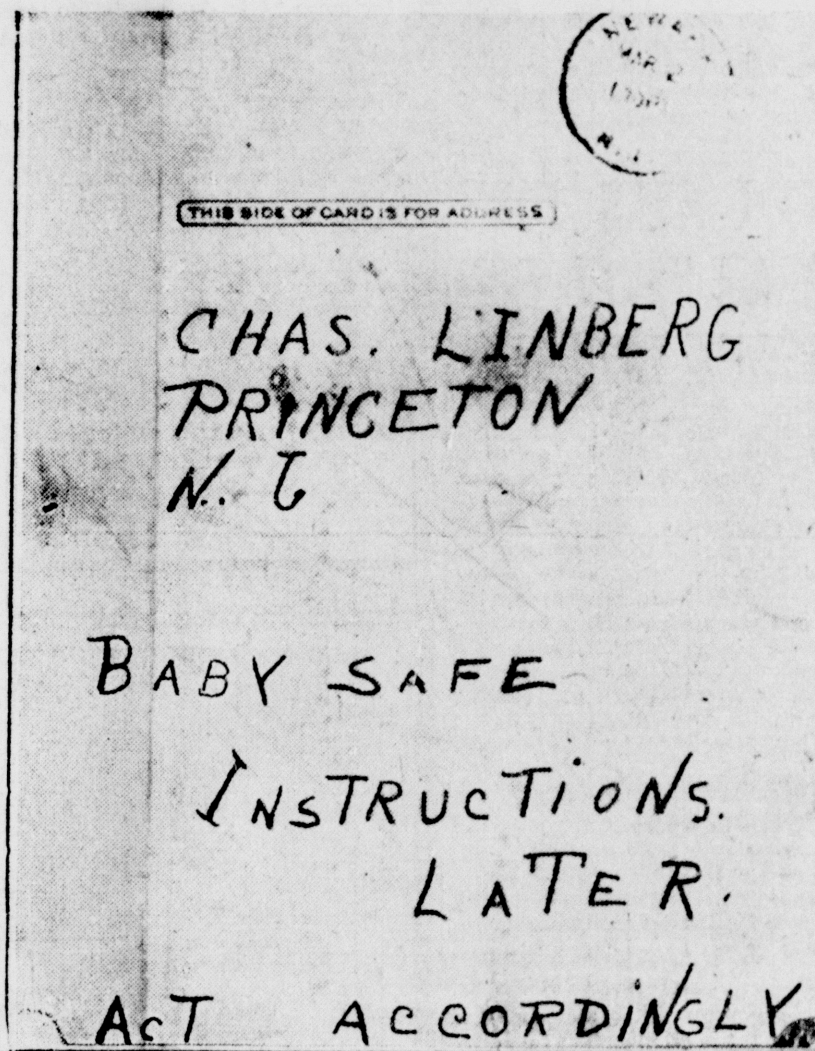

While merchants in all parts of the state were protesting against passage of the tax measure Thursday, a band of 200 men marched to Governor Laffoon's mansion, demanding to see the chief executive or his "women folks." They strode into the mansion past negro servants.

The governor was informed of the visit at his office in the capitol building, but before he could return home the demonstrators had left. A maid said some of the men wore badges, reading "Opposed to the sales tax." One man carried a pistol, she said.

"You will sign the death warrant of the democratic party in Kentucky by passing the bill," merchants told senators. They also claimed passage of the measure would "relegate 20,000 retail merchants into oblivion."

LINDBERGH'S BEG ABDUCTORS TO RETURN SON; PROMISE FULL PROTECTION AND $50,000 CASH

Message from Kidnapers?

Facsimiles of the two sides of a postcard, with address and message printed in pencil, that was found in the mails at Newark, N. J., where it had been dropped in a street mailbox. While some detectives regard it as a cruel hoax, no clue is being overlooked in the search for the kidnaped Lindbergh baby and Newark is being fine-combed.

Appeal Promises Strictly Confidential Arrangements and Agreed That They Would Not "Try to Injure or Harm Those Connected with Return of Child"

Hopewell, N. J., Mar. 4.—(U.P.)—The Lindbergh family today begged the kidnapers of their baby, Charles Augustus, Jr., to return the child, take ransom and go free.

OFFER TO VEIL NEGOTIATIONS

Making a public appeal for the kidnapers to come forward on their own terms, and in fullest secrecy, the Lindbergh family supplemented this later today with a statement to the United Press that Col. Lindbergh is ready for a meeting any time, anywhere "even in the underworld" to effect the return of the child.

The appeal promised strictly confidential arrangements and agreed, on the solemn word of honor of the colonel and his wife, that they would not "try to injure in any way those connected with the return of the child."

That statement meant "just what it said," the United Press was advised subsequently by the Lindbergh family.

It was made in all honesty, without reserve and meant the Lindberghs are ready to treat with the kidnapers or their agents in any way.

OFFICIALS PLEDGE PROTECTION

A pledge of protection by County Prosecutor E. E. Marshall of Mercer county was subsequently issued.

The $50,000 demand as ransom is ready, kept in safety at Newark, in bills of small denomination as marked. It will be paid upon delivery of the child, with no conditions attached to the offer.

The letter signed by Ann and Charles Lindbergh follows:

"Colonel Lindbergh and I want to make a personal contact with the kidnapers of our child. Our only interest is in his safe and immediate return. "I will feel certain that the kidnapers will realize that this interest is strong enough to justify their having complete confidence and trust in any promises we may make in connection with his return.

"We urge those who have the child to let any representative that they desire meet a representative of ours, who will be suitable to them, at any time and at any place that they may designate.

"If this is accepted we promise we will keep whatever arrangements that they may make with their representatives and ours strictly confidential and we further pledge ourselves that we will not try to injure in any way those connected with the return of the child. (Signed) Charles A. and Anne Lindbergh."

Col. Henry Breckenridge, personal representative of Col. Lindbergh, made this statement to the United Press:

"We are counting upon the personal statement of Col. and Anne Lindbergh to create a feeling of confidence in the minds of the persons who now have the baby so they will be free to contact with us.

"Certainly they cannot believe that the colonel and Ann, in a matter of such extreme importance as this, would trifle with them in any way.

"Col. Lindbergh will meet them anywhere; under any conditions that they may wish to lay down, even to going into the underworld itself, to meet the men who have his baby, and arrange for its return.

"We will associate ourselves with any agency and utilize any facility to get in touch with persons who can assure the people who have the baby that they will be safe in contacting with us."

No Clues at Hand

The United Press was authorized today by the Lindbergh family to state that they have no "clues," that they are not closing in on any suspect, and that their one aim is to establish the contact in order to get their baby back.

With such a contact established, they will pay the money for the return of their child.

To support this solemn pledge, County Prosecutor Marshall agreed to "do everything within my power to grant any protection necessary to insure the return of this baby."

The appeal came after more than 60 hours of torture. The Lindberghs previously had permitted the broadcasting of an appeal by air and in the press during the night, but today's fervent plea was the first over their signatures—a notice to the kidnapers that they can be safe and trust in the Lindberghs. Their confidence was plainly sought and the Lindberghs want this confidence to grow to the point where they will surrender blue-eyed Charles and take their pay.

A sub-zero cold wave was reported to be moving westward and was expected to cause temperatures to drop sharply. Snow is expected to accompany the cold wave tonight.

DISPATCH BUYS 16-PAGE PRESS

EXPECT HOOVER TO O. K. FARM BOARD WHEAT TO THE NEEDY

BILL PROVIDES DISTRIBUTION OF 40 MILLION BUSHELS TO NEEDY OF COUNTRY

Washington, March 4.—(U.P.)—President Hoover is expected to approve distribution of 40,000,000 bushels of farm board wheat to the needy.

A bill to that effect, passed earlier this session by the senate was adopted yesterday by the house, 344 to 2.

Republican Floor Leader Snell approved it, indicating administration sanction. Minor differences now must be adjusted in conference.

The wheat, to be distributed through the Red Cross or whatever organization it designates, probably will be handed out in the form of flour. It is understood millers have promised to grind it without charge.

One of the president's earlier objections was to the "dumping" of wheat on the market, but he is represented to feel now that the danger in this bill is not great.

Purchase of a 16-page Goss stereotype newspaper rotary press was announced today by The Daily Dispatch.

The new machine will replace the old 8-page "flat-bed" model now in use.

The new press, probably the only one of its kind to go into use in Central Minnesota cities of this size, is a high speed machine capable of producing a maximum of 10,000 sixteen page papers per hour or 20,000 eight page papers per hour.

Weighting nearly 15 tons, the press prints units of four, six, eight, ten, twelve or sixteen pages, in one operation. The press now in use is capable of printing only eight pages at one time.

Of late design, combining the most modern engineering principles for excellent print and volume production, the new press differs in working principle from the machine now in use. The new press is known as a stereotype rotary press printing from metal forms made from matrices of individual pages while the old press prints from the actual page of type.

Installation of the new and larger press facilities has been made necessary by the rapidly increasing circulation of The Daily Dispatch and in view of the plans that are nearing completion for the establishment of carrier routes in the towns of Crow Wing and neighboring counties.

Shipment of the press has been routed over the Northern Pacific at a cost of more than $100 in freight charges. The Daily Dispatch insisted on the Northern Pacific carrying the freight necessitating special routing. It is expected to arrive here within the next two weeks. Installation will be begun immediately but it will probably be the latter part of this month before it is ready for operation.

Meanwhile, moving of the press now in use to make way for the new machine will start Saturday. An early edition is planned tomorrow so that movers can shift the old press from its bed and prepare it over the weekend for publication of the regular edition of The Daily Dispatch Monday.

Motion Picture Operator

Guilty of Bank Robbery

Columbia, Miss., March 2.—(U.P.)—A jury of farmers today found N. A. Dickson, motion picture operator of Kilgore, Texas, guilty as charged in connection with the $7,000 robbery of the Columbia bank last January 4.

Judge J. O. Langston fixed the penalty at 15 years imprisonment.

The jury received the case at 7:30 o'clock last night and reported its verdict at 8:40 a. m.

Attorneys for Dickson, whose bond was set at $15,000, announced an appeal would be taken.

Kidnaper of Eddie Cudahy Advises Lindbergh to Pay Abductors Any Price but to Deal Directly With Them

By PAT CROWE (Kidnapers of Edward Cudahy in 1900; now an evangelist.)

Scranton, Pa., March 4.—(U.P.)—My advice to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife in their effort to get back their baby is:

Pay the kidnapers anything they demand, be it $50,000 or a million.

Lynch them, burn them, quarter them, do anything you want, but get the child back first.

But Col. Lindbergh had better deal with the abductors directly and immediately, because if the trail gets too hot, they may do away with the child.

Right now they probably don't want anything to happen to him. He's too valuable. They've probably got him hidden safely within 50 or 60 miles of the Lindbergh home. The chances are the baby was in his hiding place long before the Lindberghs knew he had been taken.

There's one thing, though, that makes me think maybe they're not professionals. They only asked for $50,000 ransom. This is an amateur price—or else the depression has hit the kidnaping racket.

Back in 1900 when I kidnaped Eddie Cudahy, heir to the Cudahy meat packing millions, we asked for $600,000. Later we cut this to $25,000 because we didn't want it in bills.

Real professionals would have asked for a million in cold cash. When we planned to kidnap John D. Rockefeller, Sr., we intended to ask for $5,000,000. We expected to give them plenty of time to get the gold.

The Rockne "65" will arrive in Brainerd Saturday.

The new car will hold the spotlight in an informal "automobile show" to be held Saturday at the display rooms of the Lively Auto Company located at Brainerd, local distributors for Rockne Motor Corporation. The public has been invited to attend, to inspect and drive the Studebaker sponsored and guaranteed automobile that "brings style and performance to the low price field."

The Rockne "65" is in the very lowest price field with six models ranging from $585 to $695 f. o. b. factory. It is mounted on a 110-inch wheelbase and powered with a 66 horsepower, six cylinder motor that is cushioned in live rubber at all four points of suspension. This vibration-free power plant insures a smooth, sustaining speed of 65 to 70 miles an hour.

All Rockne "65" models—in fact all cars of the Rockne line—are equipped with improved free wheeling in all forward speeds, plus the latest development in full synchronized shifting, ultra quiet in all speeds and especially advantageous when the braking power of the engine is preferred to the economy of free wheeling.

GIVES NONE TOO ROSEY A DESCRIPTION OF "TIMES" ON THE WEST COAST

Industrial and business conditions in Brainerd and the Northwest are superior to the west coast in general in the opinion of T. H. Schaefer, proprietor of the Model Meat Market, who returns to Brainerd with the thought "I am contented and happy to live in Brainerd."

Mr. and Mrs. Schaefer spent the last month visiting relatives and friends on the west coast. They travelled by train, stopping for short visits at Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland, Portland, Tacoma and Seattle.

Seattle and San Francisco appeared the only cities not seriously hit by the depression. All lumber towns on the west coast are particularly hard hit. Some of the mills have not been in operation for two years. Few tourists are travelling. The Los Angeles hotels present a sad picture with few guests registered.

And to top off the picture Schaefer said the west coast's noted sunshine was sadly missing. "In the month we were away, there were only six days of sunshine," Schaefer said.

A JUNIOR COLLEGE—

Educational advantages of Brainerd, already surpassing the qualifications of any city its size in the state by virtue of the imposing plants and excellent curricula and staff of teachers, would be greatly enhanced through the establishment of a junior college here.

Agitation for the addition to the curricula of a two-year college course has been taken up seriously. And, The Daily Dispatch feels that the possibility of securing a state junior college should be carefully analyzed. Every angle should be weighed thoroughly and every requirement for meeting the demands of the state to secure such an institution should exact exhaustive and comprehensive thought from the entire citizenry.

It is not just the fact that a state junior college would be here that the institution should prompt the move to secure it. But, the motivating influence behind the movement should be launched upon a conscientious and sincere campaign to offer educational facilities in Brainerd for residents of the entire community within a radius bordering on the territory served by similar institutions elsewhere.

Requirements necessary to secure a junior college are:

1. City must apply for membership in August.
2. The assessed valuation of the applicant city must be at least three million dollars.
3. Two-thirds of the taxpayers in the city must sign the petition asking the college.
4. The dean and faculty members must have certain educational qualifications higher than those of high school teachers.
5. The building and equipment must meet with the entire approval of the estate department.

The fact that a city must apply for the institution by August 1 should prompt early action for the formation of a committee to delve into the proposition.

ATTEND THE REFUGE HEARING—

Brainerd sportsmen should turn out en masse for the hearing to be conducted Saturday at 2 o'clock on the proposed establishment of a game refuge on Gull Lake. Not only should they attend but they should be prepared to voice their opinions on the question.

The chamber of commerce will go to the meeting armed with opinions of a number of sportsmen. These opinions were voiced through a request made by the conservation committee of the chamber of commerce through The Daily Dispatch.

Whether or not you are in favor of a game refuge on Gull Lake it behooves every sportsman to attend the hearing. W. D. Stewart, state game and fish commissioner, is expected to conduct the hearing.

INVITE RURAL WOMEN TO LUNCHEON—

Preceding the concert sponsored by the Brainerd Musical club in the high school Saturday afternoon featuring Lorna Doone Jackson, contralto, a luncheon will be served in the Presbyterian church to which everyone and especially women from the rural districts is invited.

The luncheon has almost become an annual event of the Musical club. So great was the interest and enthusiasm and the turnout of rural women that the courtesy committee did not hesitate to plan another of these delightful events. A feature of the luncheon will be a program in the interest of county-wide tree planting in honor of the Washington bi-centennial.

Residents of the rural districts are expected in great numbers to join hands with members of the Musical club in this delightful event.

NEEDLESS ALARM—

Now and then someone comments on the fact that when famous women of the year are chosen by various periodicals and organizations the group is always composed of women whose activities have not been confined to their homes. The special prominence seems reserved for women who have achieved success in some field which has little to do with bruised knees and jelly tarts and round red mouths that whisper children's funny little secrets.

Of course the natural answer is that women whose achievements are known to a larger group are the ones who are chosen. But the fact that this is true in no wise diminishes the work of those who make a home from a house of rooms and plant love and laughter and sympathy in children's hearts.

The very fact that the graciousness of homemaking is taken as a matter of course shows that the foundation of our nation is built on solid rock. If such a trust were played up as something unusual there would be cause for danger. Story-hours at candle-lighting time, lullabies crooned with lips close-pressed against sleepy, curly heads, rhymed voices that chant the old Now-I-Lay-Me-Down-to-Sleep—these are cornerstones of American home life.

If it were an unusual thing for a woman to like the syrupy smell of boiling fruit that will make jam for her children's sandwiches, if it were strange for her to glory in the clean, crisp touch of white sheets, the cups and saucers that stand in bright rows in her cupboard—if women didn't love heartfires, then there would be cause for serious alarm.

It is only right and natural for some women to go into the world and toil. There are tasks for them to do. And many of them keep homes as well.

But the vast majority keep faith at hearthside. A woman's greatest pleasure consists now, as always, in telling the man she loves that it isn't his fault that he hasn't won the laurels that he deserves . . . and in telling a little boy, who looks like his father, that of course he will win them some day.

Those who are afraid that the modern woman—as women whose working hours are spent outside of their homes are sometimes called—has changed are doing much useless worrying. If the modern business woman were asked, and answered truthfully, it would be discovered that she is pretty closely related to her home-keeping sisters

The dime-a-dance girl

BY JOAN CLAYTON

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Beautiful ELLEN ROSSITER, a salesgirl in Barclay's department store, works at night as a dance hall hostess at Dreamland. She lives with her extravagant mother, MOLLY ROSSITER, her elder sister, MYRA, and her young brother, MIKE.

STEVEN BARCLAY, 57 and Ellen's employer, loves the girl but Ellen is in love with LARRY HARROWGATE, an artist, she has met at Dreamland. She loses her heart to him in spite of the fact that he is engaged to ELIZABETH BOWEN, a debutante.

Ellen is unwilling to wound Barclay but when scandalous gossip is circulated at the store, she determines to see him no more. However, Molly Rossiter, anxious for Ellen to marry a rich husband, invites Barclay to dinner. Without Ellen's knowledge, Molly borrows money to make the apartment more attractive and to buy the most expensive food.

When the girl learns this she is furious. She and Molly go to the kitchen to prepare dinner while Myra and BETTIE ATWOOD, Myra's dance, entertain Barclay.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVII

THE Rossiter ice-box was stuffed almost to the bursting point. Certainly Molly had stinted on nothing. There was pate, there was lobster, there were two plump, yellow ducks—and duck at $1.75 a pound. There were artichokes and avacados. There were all the things that should never have been included in a simple home dinner.

But, Ellen squared her jaw and flew about the heated kitchen, growing hotter and crosser each minute. Perched at the kitchen table daintily shelling peas, Molly looked cool and comfortable and maddeningly satisfied with herself. From time to time she would hum a little tune. Then, glimpsing her daughter's black face, she would halt and virtuously continue shelling the peas. Molly was convinced every thing would work out for the best.

Except for decorative purposes the colored maid was entirely useless. She did set the table with a great flourish. She considered that with serving and washing the dishes she would have more than earned her $5 and said so. When Ellen, ignoring this disinclination toward real labor, suggested that she taste the ducks, the maid looked aggrieved and "allowed" she did only plain cooking.

"This is plain enough," said Ellen in exasperation. "You'll simply have to do it while my mother and I dress. Just open the oven every 10 minutes and ladle the drippings up with a spoon."

"All right, Miss, I'll do it. But you can't blame me if the ducks don't taste just right."

"We won't," snapped Ellen.

She grew cooler and more comfortable in the bedroom as she flung aside her business dress, went into the bathroom and cautiously bathed with due consideration for the fact that splashing water was audible in the living room. She returned to the bedroom and slipped into a clean, fresh, blue linen frock. She brushed her curling hair, powdered her flushed face and found the string of amber beads that went so well with her skin. She looked all right. The sleeveless dress, cheap as it was, was very kind to her slender youth.

"Ellen, honey," said her mother, entering, "will you fix my snaps or are you still mad at me?"

Ellen's heart failed her. What was the use of anger, of threats, of reproaches? After a solemn talk, which took place as Ellen's fingers busied themselves with the snaps, she explained to her mother that there would be no more of that kind of thing.

She looked calmly at her mother, telling her of the gossip at the store. Ellen had succeeded in frightening the harum-scarum, little Irish woman.

"They're just jealous," she declared. "If I were you I'd just tell that Mrs. Bondy that he was here for dinner tonight. That'd stop their mouths. I've half a notion to go down there and tell—"

"The best thing I can do," Ellen interrupted warningly, "is what I am doing—say nothing."

"Well—maybe you're right, but I'd like to give two or three of those girls a good shaking just the same!"

TOGETHER they went into the living room. Bert was engaged in a long and technical discussion of the comparative merits of the Yankees and the Giants. If Barclay were bored, his courteous, interested air concealed the fact. He stood up quickly as Ellen and Molly appeared.

"Well, dinner is almost ready at last," Molly announced. "I hope you're not all starved. Where in the world do you suppose Mike is?" "I'll go find him," offered Myra. The room was breathlessly still and every one was politely dissembling interest in the sharp, delicious odor of roasting duck.

"You haven't met the pride of the family," Ellen remarked smilingly to Barclay.

"Oh yes I have. I met him in the hall," Barclay affirmed.

Ellen did not know what made her think that he looked guilty in a small-boy way, but she did think that. Could Mike have said something to him? Myra had started for the door when Ellen suddenly determined to learn what had occurred in the hall. She spoke hurriedly and definitely.

"You go wash up, Myra. I'll gather Mike in."

She was out the door and running down the stairs. When she reached the street she saw that practically all the youngsters in the neighborhood—gathered before the apartment door almost blocking it. A few stared with wistful longing at the sleek black limousine from which the alertly rigid chauffeur barred them. But the majority, screaming and vociferous, were peering up the lamp-light street.

"Have any of you seen Mike Rossiter?" she inquired, wondering just what new game they were playing.

"Sure," half a dozen voices chorused shrilly. She picked out from the resultant confusion the information that Mike was giving Peter Rafferty a ride on his new motor.

Then she saw Mike. He was struggling along proudly beside a shining wheel, calling out caution and advice to the tow-headed youngster who was pedaling. Ellen knew all at once why Barclay had looked so guilty. This was impossible!

"Mike Rossiter, come here this minute!" she called.

THE youngsters made way for him. Peter Rafferty slid from the seat and scuttled down the street like a small, active crab. Mike, unconscious of the calamity about to fall, carefully wheeled his new possession over the curb and up to the sidewalk. Ellen had never seen such glory as was on his transfigured face.

"Mr. Barclay gave it to me," he explained in a hushed voice, caressing with his grubby hand the shining mud-guards.

"But, darling, we can't let you keep it," Ellen said faintly.

The blow struck. Mike's face turned red; his blue eyes looked surprised, bewildered, confused, hurt and angry, in rapid succession. For a moment he gazed at her in appalled silence; then burst into loud and frantic wails. So overwhelming was his grief and rage that Ellen was afraid it would result in his usual upset stomach. She gathered in his shaking body, conscious that the entire juvenile population of the block was watching.

"I can't do anything," Mike sobbed. "I can't have anything. I promised all the other boys a ride. Mother'd let me have it. I'll be so good Ellen; I'll do everything you tell me."

"But Mike—"

"My bike, my bike!"

Ellen knew she was weak and that she should be firm; she knew that once she let Mike get the upper hand her discipline would be gone. But she could not stand out against this overwhelming grief. She relented.

When Ellen and Mike, the latter's face pale and tear-stained, got the bicycle up the stairs and into the living room, the girl saw that the news had preceded them. As they made their awkward entrance, she and Myra exchanged an expressive glance. Myra, too, was troubled by Barclay's munificence. But Molly, her small jaw set in stubborn lines, carefully voided Ellen's eye. That was not surprising. Ellen had expected no help from that quarter.

There was an embarrassing silence.

Mike, childishly conscious that something was wrong, conscious that he had somehow failed his sister and by no means certain of his ultimate victory, deserted Ellen to rush to his mother. Molly stroked his hot little head buried in her lap and bent to whisper words of comfort.

Bert, twiddling with the radio dials, considered the whole affair unworthy of a man's attention. He could never understand what he termed those "Rossiter" moods of Myra and her sister.

The most uncomfortable person in the room was the real culprit. Steven had hoped Ellen would speak but when she did not he said anxiously: "Have I been thoughtless?"

Ellen, without comment, wheeled the bicycle into the crowded closet in the corner and shut the door with a rather sharp bang.

She did not know what to say. How could she tell Barclay that it was one thing to present a toy to the child of a millionaire and quite another to present that same toy to the child whose parents could not afford to give it to him? How could she tell him of the fierce and necessary pride of the poor?

"You've been extremely thoughtful," Molly was saying, with a timid glance at Myra. "Not one man in a thousand would know exactly what a boy of 10 wanted. Mike's been dying, simply dying, for a bicycle."

Mike shyly raised his head. "I'm to keep it then?" he demanded eagerly. "Ellen said so if I'd be good."

At that moment the maid made a blessed interruption, an interruption which Ellen felt to be almost worth the $5 she was to receive. She clumped into the room to announce dinner was ready.

Thoughts for Lent

"Soul, Filled With the Holy Spirit" (Read Acts 13:4-12.)

It is remarkable a Spirit-filled man put to rout his unspiritual antagonists. The Light that is in such a man simply dispels the darkness in those who seek to withstand him. It is the direct outcome of a quickened faith in God through Christ. If, therefore, we find ourselves unable to produce such an effect, we may be sure that something is lacking; and to make it good. This can be done only through purposeful prayer. The influence of God's Spirit pours into us to generate power. Unless, however, we use that power we lose it. One can keep himself filled with the Holy Spirit, abroad to all whom he encounters on life's way.

Prayer: O Thou who art the Source of all our strength, grant unto us, we beseech Thee, so purposeful a desire to serve our fellows that we may never be content until we are in the midst of action, to the end that, being blessed ourselves, we may be a blessing to this world, for Christ's sake. Amen.

THE OPEN FORUM

To the Editor of the Daily Dispatch:

I have been reading the open forum with great interest. I am sure there has been food for much thought. I was glad to read the articles from the ladies and I hope more will express themselves. To the one I will say there has always been too great a margin between the producer and the consumer and to the other I will say customs are at fault. The merchants tell you how much he will give and also how much he will take. It surely would be a knockout if the people would walk into the merchants and if they needed the product you were selling, tell them you were asking a certain price today.

I wish to say to the gentleman signing his name as Sandy you surely hit the nail on the head, but what are we going to do. The people in general are against such a project. Why not get up a petition? Ask Mr. Knutson to cut it out and forget about such a bill; that the taxpayers do not want to experiment in fur farms, that in general are more interested in raising tax money to pay our taxes.

The other night something was said about the engineer. I believe there is talent right here in Brainerd that would have been glad to take the job at $200 dollars per month with a car furnished. Probably he would not be up to all the tricks but would give honest to goodness service.

I believe we have women folks who would be glad to serve as county nurse for $100 per month with a car for her own use.

I objected to our commissioners paying $350 for advertising the tourist trade. Well, I found out since it was $350 dollars that they gave. There are three ways our commissioners could have saved $1,950. We wonder how many other ways they could have saved. As I am touching as many topics as I can in the space I have to make it short.

Well, did you notice how soon a reward of $25,000 was raised to restore the Lindbergh child? That was a noble act, but today in our good old U. S. A. stars and stripes, how many mothers are looking at their little babies undernourished dying from hunger and illness. And so, we have the effect of depression to open up those coffers of millions and millions of dollars. Force them open, if necessary, and put laborers to work at reasonable wages and inside of three months we will not know we had depression.

Don't you think it would be a good policy to ask Mr. Stewart to take an extended visit to Florida for two years? Mr. Stewart, I believe, is overworked and acting rather childish.

Yes sir, he stops the fellow citizens from getting a few fish in the winter. Now, he wants a game refuge on Gull Lake among the summer homes, and small farms.

Well, it used to be the law that if you had control over that land, if some one's stock got onto your place you shut them up and held them for damage. And it used to be the law that if your neighbor's chickens bothered you, you notified the owner and if he did not keep them off you shot them and threw them over the fence. It would be some job for the game warden to keep his flock off the places around Gull Lake.

Well, maybe we have no right to ask for a square deal. Wake up, young fellows, your next in the collar.

RANGERS AND FALLS IN FIRST CLASH OF CAGE SEMI-FINALS

PRE-DOPED WINNERS SURVIVE OPENING ROUND OF DISTRICT TOURNAMENT

The 25th district cage tournament enters its semi-finals at the Washington high school tonight to eliminate two teams before the championship game Saturday night.

By virtue of their wins in the opening round Thursday, Crosby-Ironton will play Little Falls at 8 o'clock and Brainerd will meet Staples at the 9:15 o'clock game.

Basing the strength of the teams through the season and in yesterday's games, the Brainerd-Staples event should prove the more exciting clash of the two.

Crosby-Ironton is fortunate to be in the semi-finals tonight. The Rangers met an inspired team in the Wadena boys in the afternoon game and nosed out a 21-18 win. The game was the Doors to the high school gymnasium will open at 7:15 p. m. today for the semi-finals of the cage tournament, W. C. Cobb, superintendent of schools and local tournament manager, announced.

The attendance at last night's games was estimated at 1,500. The afternoon game was witnessed by approximately 500 fans.

closest to an upset in the first round. The remaining winners came through with comparatively easy sailing although New York Mills gave Little Falls a scare in the closing half of the first night game. Trailing by 23-5 at the half New York Mills launched a strong offense in the second half to hold the final score down to 36-24.

Verndale presented mild competition against a strong Staples team, failing to count one field goal. Staples won, 32-7.

Brainerd grabbed a 16-8 lead at the half and came through for a 22-14 victory over Aitkin.

Seven players were ruled out of play on personal fouls in the opening games. However, there was little undue roughness.

Brainerd Off Fast

Brainerd high broke off at a fast clip and had rung up three field goals in the first 30 seconds of play against Aitkin. Foster scoring two and Bob Wylie one. The Warriors led throughout, 9-2 at the quarter, 23-5 at the half, 27-16 at the third and finished 36-24.

Coach Dammann substituted players liberally, saving his team's strength for the battle with Staples tonight.

Brainerd made six free throws but missed seven field goals.

Staples Nifty Floor Team

Staples romped off to a 32-7 win over Verndale, showing a smooth working offense and a strong defense. Card hit the hoop for six field goals. The team played with only six men, keeping a fast pace to the last whistle.

Falls Takes Mills

Sentry, Riddle and Beveridge teamed up as scoring aces to hang up the majority of goals against New York Mills.

Deadly on their free throws the Mills scored ten out of 14 chances. Sentry lead the scoring with six field goals and one free throw.

Wadena Scores Crosby Unable to find the hoop on their famous offense drives, Crosby-Ironton went into a stalling game on a two point lead with four minutes remaining to be played in its game with Wadena.

The game proved the most exciting encounter of the day. Dobervich and Kosonen each went out of the game on personals and Wadena claimed their defeat was due to the loss of their center on personals.

WALBERG BACK IN FOLD ENDING MACK'S PITCHING WORRIES

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 4.—(UP)—Lynn Lary apparently has won back his regular position at shortstop for the New York Yankees from Frank Crosetti, west coast rookie. Lary, along with Tony Lazzeri, took part in his first workout this season and made a much better showing than did Crosetti.

Miami, Fla., March 4.—(UP)—Chick Hafey failed to accept terms offered by the St. Louis Cardinals so Ernie Orsatti will play left field for the world champions in an exhibition game with the Athletics here today. New Orleans, La., March 4.—(UP)—Eddie Morgan, slugging first baseman, was on hand today when the Cleveland Indians started their final drill before the annual practice series with the New Orleans Pelicans tomorrow. Morgan was a holdout only 24 hours.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 4.—(UP)—The Boston Red Sox today looked for a break in the weather that would enable them to hold two workouts. Yesterday they worked overtime in the afternoon.

Fort Myers, Fla., March 4.—(UP)—Rube Walberg, left-handed pitcher, was expected to work out today with the Philadelphia Athletics after signing his contract yesterday. Terms have not been announced. The regulars defeated the yanigans, 5 to 3, in the first scrub game of the season yesterday.

San Antonio, Tex., March 4.—(UP)—J. Louis Comiskey, Chicago White Sox owner, had the key to this city in his possession when his team appeared today for its first workout. The key was presented yesterday by Mayor C. M. Chambers.

BIG 10 TRACK TEAMS IN SEASON PRELUDE AT CHICAGO TONIGHT

Chicago, March 4.—(UP)—Five Big Ten track teams will engage in a warming-up "preview" tonight at Chicago university's new field house, site of the conference indoor championships next week end.

Indiana, with the finest squad in its history, and Minnesota are favorites in tonight's meet. Field and track stars from Northwestern, Purdue and Chicago will oppose them. The conference meet is scheduled for March 11 and 12.

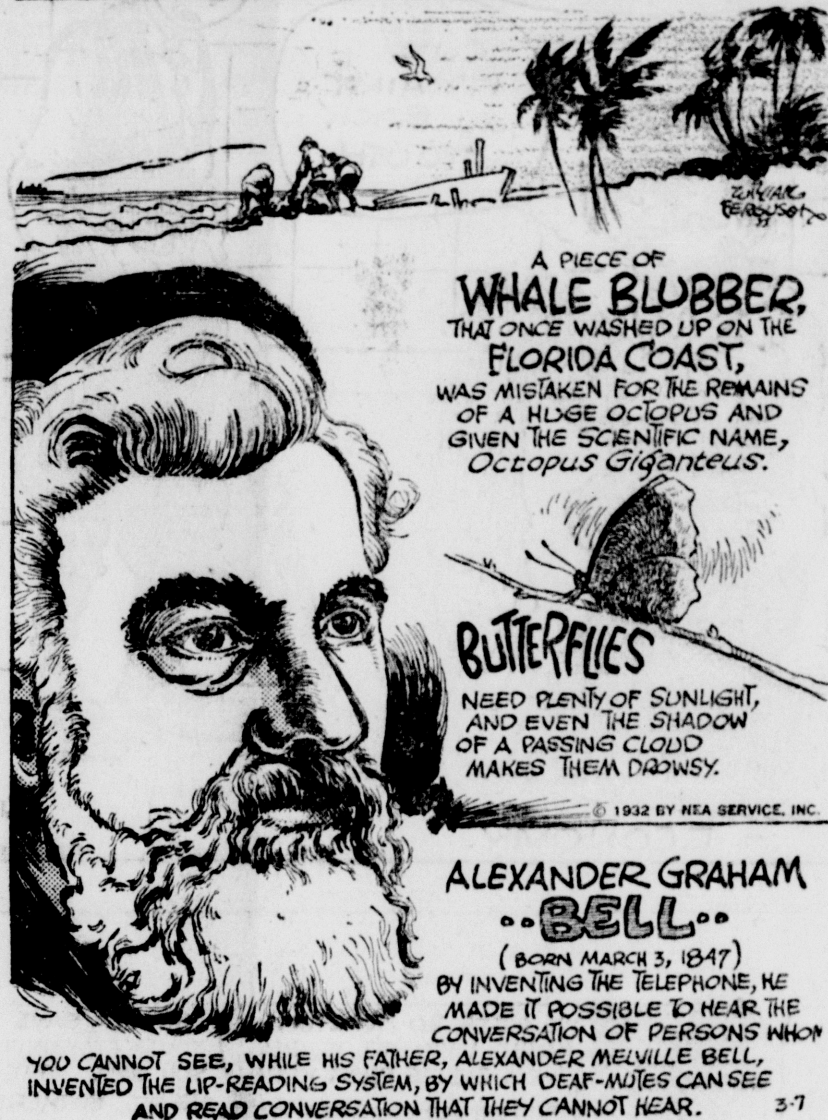

The Hoosiers, victors over Ohio State, Iowa, Purdue and Illinois, have such stars as Ivan Fuqua, Olympic possibility in the 440, Cliff Watson, best two miler in the conference, Henry Brooksmith, who makes the mile in 4:20, and Bryce Beecher, strong contender in the pole vault and high jump.

Beecher will face Elton Hess, Minnesota's pole vaulter, who made 13 feet, 7½ inches last Saturday. The Gophers also have Clarence Munn, outstanding shot putter, and Capt. Cam Hackie, who tied for the indoor high jump record last season.

Northwestern has the best relay team represented in the five way meet and expects a strong showing from Zack Ford, veteran who has equalled the world's 40 yard run record.

Purdue will be without services of Herbert Sears, half-miler, who has not recovered from injuries sustained when he fell over the grandstand railing at the Chicago field house two weeks ago.

Britain Repaying Credits to Several Countries

London, March 2.—(UP)—Great Britain is repaying $150,000,000 in credits to the United States on Friday, Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer announced in the House of Commons today.

Simultaneously, Chamberlain said, Britain is repaying approximately 13,000,000 pounds sterling (about $44,200,000 at present exchange) to France, reducing the French credits to 7,000,000 pounds.

The $150,000,000 to the United States is part of the $200,000,000 credit obtained last summer to bolster the pound.

He announced that the restrictions on purchase of foreign exchange by residents of Great Britain would be withdrawn after tonight.
